Hill International Opens Trenton Office - Dr. Jack DeTalvo Joins Hill as Vice President to Head New Office

Trenton, NJ -- Hill International, Inc., the worldwide construction consulting firm, has opened the firm's 20th office, in Trenton, New Jersey. Jack DeTalvo, Ed.D., has joined the firm as a Vice President in the company's Project Management Group, to manage that new office, which will be providing project management services on school construction and renovation projects in and around the City of Trenton on behalf of the New Jersey Schools Construction Corporation.

Dr. DeTalvo has more than 30 years of experience in all phases of education, including as administrator, principal, supervisor and teacher. Prior to joining Hill, Dr. DeTalvo was the Superintendent of the Middletown Twp. (NJ) Board of Education, where he oversaw a $78 million school construction program, the Superintendent of the Perth Amboy (NJ) Board of Education, where he oversaw a $125 million school construction program, and Superintendent of the West Morris (NJ) Regional Board of Education, where he oversaw a $24 million building program. Dr. DeTalvo earned his B.A. in mathematics from Rowan University, his M.A. in student personnel services from Kean University, and his Ed.D. in educational administration from Rutgers University. He is currently a member of the Facilities Committee of the New Jersey Association of School Administrators.

"Jack will be a terrific leader of our new assignment for the New Jersey Schools Construction Corporation," said Stuart S. Richter, Hill's Senior Vice President and New Jersey Regional Manager. "His experience in successfully managing school construction projects is simply outstanding," Richter added.

Hill's new office is located at 144 West State Street, Trenton, New Jersey 08608,
