Panayiotis Methenitis Joins Hill International as Director of Business Development in Athens Office

Athens, Greece -- Hill International, Inc., the worldwide construction consulting firm, announced that Panayiotis Methenitis has joined the firm as Director of Business Development for Eastern European countries out of the company's Athens, Greece office. In his new position, Methenitis will oversee business development efforts for Hill's Project Management Group.

Methenitis has more than 15 years of business development experience. Prior to joining Hill, Methenitis spent more than seven years, most recently as Sales Director, with the Germanos Group of Companies, a company serving the telecommunications, defense, energy and transportation markets. Methenitis earned his degree in management and production engineering from Polytechnic University in Bucharest, Romania.

"Panayiotis has demonstrated success in sales, marketing and business development," said Raouf S. Ghali, Hill's Senior Vice President in charge of international project management operations. "I expect that he will be a major contributor to Hill's continuing success in Europe," Ghali added.

Hill International provides project management services and construction claims consulting through 19 offices worldwide. Engineering News-Record magazine recently ranked Hill as the 14th largest construction management firm in the U.S. For more information on Hill, please visit our website at www.hillintl.com.
